Let Me Think A Minute

#Random: Groundhog Day was a movie about a man who had to learn from his own history how he his ego caused his own unhappiness. When he learned to not be afraid of the truth, and to let go of trying to make everyone please him, he became a happy man.

Our history goes deeper than that and our discomfort rises from the truths we never wanted to look at. It's time we start that journey.

I just finished — no, I just closed a 9-page rant piece. I decided it was just venting. Preaching to the choir, at best. And it still didn't convey what I needed to express. So, starting over.

We, all of us, are being fire hosed with scandals and corruption so egregious, we can't begin to wrap our brains around it.

Worse, it is proven-stuff mixed in with guilty-by-association-not-by-actions stuff, and sorting truth from slander is impossible inasmuch as the DOJ operating as Private Security and Protection Agency, has redacted the names of people deeply involved with the rapes and abuses of underage girls, while exposing detailed information about those girls, as a revenge for having to make the Epstein Files public. (Remember: He promised to release the files on Day ONE, but then decided after he got elected mostly on that, that he didn't have to anymore.)

He hoped his followers short attention span would give him an easy out. But they were not forgetting.

The blond bimbo, Bondi, Blondi, pulled our most dedicated FBI agents from across the nation away from their unimportant tasks of National Security, and of infiltrating Child trafficking rings, to rescue abused children, and from several financial corruption investigations, as well as major crimes, Drug trafficking, murders, and organized crime, to do the important work of redacting f47's name (and the names of his friends) from the files. She bragged that she had over 1000 agents working around the clock for more than two months, to delete his name from the files.

And yet, his name still appears more than 38,000 times.

So, to distract from this, Republicans drag the Clintons in to explain their connections to Jeffrey Epstein. Given that there are only fund-raising connections and little else, they hope to scandalize and smear them both, to please their pedophile in chief.

If there were anything to connect either of them to Epstein that was more than his social connections and fund-raising for politicians, that would've been on billboards years ago, as f47's hatred for both of them runs deep and he has no impulse control.

And, if anything shows up that proves they were in any way involved, I'm right there for the trial and conviction. I don't care whose ox gets gored.

A lot of corrupt, bad, deviant and violent men are associated with Epstein, but those names are mostly hidden. There are also people who are named in those files who had nothing to do with him aside from social contacts at fundraisers. The man ingratiated himself into every level of every power structure on the planet. He showed up at every event he could get an invite to, including awards events, and he made sure to get his picture standing next to or talking to powerful people, celebrities, etc.

(A lot of those pictures are showing up to imply more than what was true. I encourage everyone to be suspicious but wait for corroboration before lighting the torches. Don't take your eyes off of this case.)

He did it by using young girls, some as young as 10 or younger, to fulfill the deviant fantasies of powerful men whom he could then extort, blackmail, use, to build his own empire and expand his circles of acquaintances and "friends", while attaching himself to their darkest secrets, like a barnacle they tried to hide and could never shed.

This is a tried and true method/practice to corrupt legal and government systems on every scale. It works really well in Indian Country where life is cheap and women, girls go 'missing' and show up murdered, and no one puts the puzzles together. Once built, the blackmail, extortion, bribery strands of the webwork can pull in anyone, from anywhere, and it can be handed over, handed down, shared... once pulled into that web, victims and predators can never exit, but they do multiply.

New victims, and new clients. 'Round and 'round they go.. right under the noses of the government, law enforcement who all become enablers, for reasons of their own...

Things start to make sense when you question the public actions of men in position of power that made no sense whatsoever, when first viewed. Why did the most prestigious law firms, Universities, media outlets, publishing houses, banks, etc., suddenly cave to f47's fantastical law suits demanding millions and billions of dollars from them for imagined insults to his existence?

Why did they cave so quickly it made heads spin, when they had and could easily afford to get those suits thrown out in court because they were mindless and without merit? Why?

There was a collective shrug from legacy media. The man shoved billions of dollars into his own pocket, and has on hand, billions more in free legal representation 'owed to him' by the capitulated law firms, and the most powerful legacy media corporations fired (or tried to fire) anyone that displeased him and hire those he wanted running their operations, despite their lack of experience and qualifications, only because of their dedication and loyalty to him.

Simple. He had the Epstein Files ever since his first term where he had the FBI completely under his control, raid all of JE's properties. Several Semi-truck loads of information, data, photos, videos, computer files... all under his control.

The corrupt Supreme Court Conservative Justices must be in there somewhere. They vote to overturn the Constitution in favor of him, repeatedly. I can only see one reason for that: They are corrupt. He's doing exactly what they want him to do. The Heritage Foundation put them all in there, and built the structure that rots our system of laws.

They are either corrupt or in the files or both.

We don't know what to believe if we haven't spent the time researching reliable sources and understanding how the system was designed to fail. Legacy media gave us wildly inaccurate information in order to keep 'both sides' equal. They've done that over decades.

They lost their collective shit over Obama wearing a tan suit, and preferring brown mustard to yellow, but don't even blink at f 47 when a wrecking ball is tearing down the East Wing, the gaudy, tacky gold leafing of once prestigious rooms, nor his branding our most esteemed halls and centers with his name. He stopped the funding for airport improvements and Grand Central Station repairs--- unless they cave and name the airport or the train stations, after him. Legacy media shrugs. Tan suit, brown mustard, hair on fire. Go figure.

The Path To Our Destruction

Media used to have thousands of companies competing in the market. Gradually, the laws against Monopolies were chipped away as mergers became mega mergers became unified voices of 5 Mega Corporations that speak with one voice, and it's not our voice.

Their voice demands that we worship billionaires as successful through hard work. They are not.

They gained their wealth via the plantation system where slave labor in this country and abroad, made their goods, provided their services while industries at home suffered and shrank; manufacturers were gobbled up by hedge funds that stripped them of their assets, including retirement savings/pensions the workers had earned, and leveraged those assets into loans they never paid back, leaving the companies a hollow shell for bankruptcy.

Wages were gone, pensions were gone. Laws to prevent it were wiped away without a second thought. Wages were kept to unlivable levels for decades while congress gave itself raises sometimes 2 or 3x a year.

So, here we are.

Looking back over it, it is the Human Trafficking element that is the worst. It is the foundation for the worst behaviors of people in power, because it affects every level of power. It affects ALL of us.

The Police Will Protect Us

No, no they won't.

Nowhere is it more evident that the Police are not here to protect us, they are only here to control us, than in Minneapolis, where people are being abducted out of their homes, cars, off the streets, dragged out of schools and churches, by men hiding their identities, wearing masks, not having any warrants, and tear gassing the population for kicks and then outright murdering citizens for sport. The police do nothing. They neither serve nor protect the citizens.

Goons take over streets, gas, shoot to kill. All with the absolute protection of the highest seat in government. JD Vance declaring that no matter what they do, they have absolute immunity.

Nowhere in our constitution does anyone, not even the President, have absolute immunity. But the corrupt Supreme Court is defying the constitution and saying that this president has absolute immunity. Maybe not the next one, but they'll decide that depending on who it is.

Entire communities are being terrorized. Not communities with high crime rates. Not communities that were unsafe, because in fact, so far, the communities being invaded by the Federal Government have been among those with the lowest crime rates in the nation. No, the communities chosen to be terrorized are the ones who did not vote for f47. He said he would seek retribution, and he is.

Yes, Yes You Did

I'm hearing the cry of "This is not what I voted for!"

Yes, yes, it is. You heard it, you liked it, and you voted for it. You just don't like that it's affecting you. That you are paying 9-15% more for groceries because of his tariffs. Other countries don't pay your tariffs, you do. Mexico was never going to pay for any wall and you were stupid to think that's how governments work.

You spat on family and friends who didn't vote for him. Now you want to be included among the decent citizens and proclaim this is not your doing? Yes, yes, it is absolutely your doing.

You want to redeem yourself? Apologize to everyone for your support of this kind of horrific abuse. Or just remain a Nazi who hides their uniforms because the tide of public opinion thinks you're scum.

Institutions that were considered a tribute to our democracy are being destroyed. The White House is literally being torn down. The Kennedy Center is being gutted and will be torn down and what replaces it will have his name all over it.

He wants to build an Arch that is 3x bigger than the Arc d' Triumph in Paris, and he wants his name on it. It will be bigger than the WH or the Capitol Dome.

All these things cost billions of dollars, and then there's the gaudy gold leafing that has to be plastered on everything to give the illusion of HIS wealth.

But, there is no money for FEMA, SNAP is gone, Affordable Health Care is no longer affordable. Cancer research is cancelled. The list goes on. We have billions for vanity projects, but nothing for infrastructure, health, necessities of life.

He's withholding funds to upgrade the airports/train stations unless they put his name on them.

Yes, you voted for this. Now, fuck off.

Mirror The Past

It's odd isn't it? How the very corruption that is exploding in front of us now is reflected in systems and structures that were designed to control First Nations by depriving them of dignity, rights, property and freedom.

By denying them access to basic resources, food sources and their very culture, they were warehoused and starved on reservations, and forced to move, sometimes thousands of miles, when the government decided it wanted to give their current lands to corporations for resource extraction. It's how the super wealthy became even more wealthy, and we let it happen, for generations.

It's still happening. And we do nothing.

We

We, and I say “WE” because the government did it in our name without us rising up to oppose it, stole their lands, their children and denied them their language and their culture— all to please the powerful.

And now? Where are we? What are we seeing? History is being erased and rewritten by those who don’t want us to learn from the past. It’s being transformed to erase the deeds of those whose courage and accomplishments made us a stronger and better society because they weren’t the White Male Hero types. They were the best of us. They made us better, stronger, and we should remember what they did and how they did it.

Also being erased, are the deeds of those whose abuses of Human Beings, the abduction and holding of slaves, often for generations withing wealthy families, creating a foundation of wealth for the White Male Centric stories, without a logical base for how that wealth or that power was derived. Erasing the bad and ugly parts while slandering those who survived it as ‘lazy’ or ‘not intelligent’ and ‘lesser’, in a system of prejudice and bias that persists to this day, throughout the system.

We could learn from those mistakes if we were taught true history and not the sanitized and bleached out version that frankly insults all intellect.

We could learn that our founding fathers were not pure. We could learn that the Constitution was a template to guide us into being “a more perfect union”, and did not proclaim our system as perfect, but rather as one that could learn and grow. But no. We don’t get to do that.

All we hear about the Constitution and our Bill of Rights, which apparently no one studies in school any more, is a partial statement about the Second Amendment which in fact, read in its entirety, means something quite different, but who cares, right? Go shoot up all the schools, shopping centers, churches you want...

We could learn and we could grow and we could become more perfect, but you didn’t vote for that, did you.

What will come of this will be upheaval and the USA will find itself abandoned by the powers of the world that will have moved on without us. They already have. The respect for the USA has been squandered into a stain.

You see, what made us powerful in the first place was not our nukes, not our military, and not our economy. What made us powerful and is now gone, is the respect of other nations for our decency, our caring, and respect for those nations in return. We had allies. Now, after insulting those allies, attacking those allies, we have isolated ourselves. That's all gone. We are visibly weaker.

Our ambassadors insult our host nations and people.

We are the monkeys flinging feces and howling how great we are.

Yup, you voted for that.

We need to take a real good look at where we are and how we got here if we are ever going to fix it. We need to go back in history and tell the truth. It was the wealthy who came over on the Mayflower. The poor couldn't afford the price of passage. Hello?

The country wasn't founded as a land where we could worship freely, it was founded as a trading colony, by the wealthy for the wealthy.

Religious Freedom was a side benefit of being out of the reach of the Kings, and we once enjoyed it, but now religion has become worship of the government and those who worship differently or who choose no god at all, are deemed a threat to the system. So is anyone not white enough.

History Is Essential

We need to look at the stolen lands, the genocides, the slavery, and the lies and see ourselves for what we are and how we got her so we can correct course and become something better, but we can't do that unless we rid ourselves of the corruption and quit giving billionaires a free ride on our backs and our resources.

I'd vote for that course correction. It will take generations to repair the damage being done currently, and even longer to repair and make amends to the damage done in founding this country. This can be done if we realize that we are all in it together and have to take care of one another.

We can't do this if we allow billionaires and mega corporations to control our resources, our food sources or our information sources. As long as they can keep us divided, they can be safe from accountability, and equality becomes a pipe dream.

Stay angry, but keep a clear view from the history to the possible future of our society and our nation.

Let the Red Hats stew in their own juices. They are cowards and we can't waste our energy in trying to make them want to be decent human beings. They never wanted to be that to begin with.

Remember: This country, in fact the entire world, was a paradise of plenty for everyone. It was made that way. It was beautiful that way. It was greed and the greedy who wanted it all for themselves. The greedy have nothing to offer anyone.

Stop worshipping greed.

Look around at the suffering. You aren't helpless to fix it. Put your efforts towards leaders who have progressive ideas, compassion and intelligence. Those who condemn the sick and the suffering as victims of their own making, are not leaders, they are the cause of the misery they condemn. Hold leaders accountable.

Look at Justice.

That is the key to Peace everywhere. Injustice serves the powerful and the corrupt. Justice serves everyone.

Hold the system accountable. Get Real. Wake the fuck up!

You know where to find me.
